The Conference

The International Conference of Data Protection and Privacy Commissioners has been the premier meeting place of the world’s data protection regulators and enforcers. The Conference has grown substantially and its membership now extends across many parts of the world.

Each year the Conference meets in a different city hosted by the local data protection or privacy authority. The first conference was held in Bonn, Germany, in 1979.

So far the Conference has passed 44 resolutions.

After 35 years, the Conference now has about 100 member authorities. It strives to achieve the vision of an environment in which privacy and data protection authorities around the world are able effectively to act to fulfil their mandates, both individually and in concert, through diffusion of knowledge and supportive connections.

The Vision

An environment in which privacy and data protection authorities around the world are able effectively to act to fulfil their mandates, both individually and in concert, through diffusion of knowledge and supportive connections.

The Mission

The Conference seeks:

- To be an outstanding global forum for privacy and data protection authorities.
- To disseminate knowledge, and provide practical assistance, to help authorities more effectively to perform their mandates.
- To provide leadership at international level in data protection and privacy.
- To connect and support efforts at domestic and regional level, and in other international forums, to enable authorities better to protect and promote privacy and data protection.

The Strategic Priorities

The Conference has set itself three high level priorities to allow actions to be focused and more effective: carving a niche, establishing a firm footing and building capacity. As the first strategic plan these priorities are aimed at enhancing the Conference’s capacity for action.

The Executive Committee

The current Executive Committee is:

- John Edwards, Privacy Commissioner New Zealand (Chair)
- Julie Brill, Federal Trade Commissioner, USA
- Isabelle Falque-Pierrotin, CNIL, France
- Jacob Kohnstamm, Dutch Data Protection Authority (Host 2015)
- Drudeisha Madhub, Mauritius Data Protection Commissioner (Host 2014)
